Disclaimer

Oy Everon Ab and Everon UK Limited wish to point out to the reader that it may assume no responsibility concerning forward looking statements or predictions as presented in this Business Presentation. Such statements or predictions are based on the current expectations and certain assumptions by Everon's management, and are, therefore, subject to certain risks and uncertainties. A variety of factors, many of which are beyond Everon's control, affect Everon's operations, performance, business strategy and results and could cause the actual results, performance or achievements of Everon to be materially different from any future results, performance or achievements that may be expressed or implied by the forward-looking statements herein. In particular, Everon is strongly affected by changes in general economic and business conditions as these directly impact its processes, customers and suppliers. This may negatively impact our revenue development and the realization of greater capacity utilization as a result of growth. Numbers presented in this Business Presentation might not correlate as they may be a sum of rounded or extrapolated figures.
