

The Voice of Connected Health &
Safety

A Nation at a Crossroads

54 million+ Americans are 65 or older — a number projected to nearly double by 2060 (census.gov)

90% of older adults want to age in their own homes (aarp.org)

Every 11 seconds, an older adult is treated in an emergency room for a fall (cdc.gov/falls)

6 million+ Americans are living with Alzheimer's or dementia (alz.org)

53 million unpaid family caregivers are stretched beyond their limits (caregiving.org)

More Americans than ever are aging at home, managing chronic conditions, and living independently — often without adequate safety nets.

The system as we know it is under pressure.

Real Challenges. Real People.

Safety & Monitoring

Falls, wandering, medication errors, and medical emergencies go undetected — especially when loved ones live alone.

Caregiving Strain

Family caregivers provide 34+ hours of unpaid care per week, leading to burnout, financial strain, and compromised care quality.

Cost Restraints

Healthcare and long-term care costs are rising faster than incomes. Many families cannot afford professional in-home care.

Access & Connectivity Gaps

Rural and underserved communities often lack access to health technology, broadband, and remote monitoring solutions.

Fragmented Care Coordination

Siloed systems mean providers, caregivers, and families aren't communicating — leading to gaps, delays, and preventable hospitalizations.

Connected Technology Is the Answer

The rise of remote monitoring, digital health platforms, wearables, and AI-powered safety tools is transforming how we care for people — making it possible to detect risks earlier, respond faster, and support independence longer.

- Remote Patient Monitoring
- Wearable Safety Devices
- Smart Home & Aging-in-Place Tech
- AI-Powered Emergency Response
- Digital Caregiver Support Tools
- Personal Emergency Response Systems

Who We Are & Why It Matters

Advancing the future of connected safety

The Connected Health & Safety Association (CHS) is the only professional trade association dedicated to advancing technology-enabled solutions that support independent living, personal wellness, and real-time care.
